

SAT-2000 (SAT-6000) Discontinuance Notice

Ref. No. 2014-126M

Pub Date 07/2014

At Rockwell Collins, we appreciate your selection of our products for your aircraft, and strive to provide you with the best quality parts and service. Occasionally, advancements in the technologies we offer our customers necessitate that we cease production and phase out the support of older solutions. This is the case with the SAT-2000 Inmarsat Satcom Terminal System.

Effective as of the date outlined in this Marketing Bulletin, Rockwell Collins will no longer continue production nor take additional orders on the SAT-2000 Inmarsat Satcom Terminal System due to:

- › Inmarsat's decision to phase out Inmarsat-3 Constellation services in the near future, and discontinue the Aero-I service on the Inmarsat-4 global beams
- › Obsolescence issues with several SAT-2000 key subcomponents

Rockwell Collins will accept limited orders for the SAT-2000 Satcom (Last Time Buy opportunity) based on parts availability, or until November 1, 2014 (which ever comes first), with delivery ending December 1, 2015 (thirteen months after Last Time Buy operation).

Rockwell Collins will continue to support the SAT-2000 Satcom system until further notice. The support period will extend at least eight years after the last system is produced.

PRODUCT DISCONTINUANCE

The following table lists the discontinued transceivers affected part numbers:

System Type	Sub-System Type	Equipment Type Discontinued Part Number
